HOW DO YOU LIKE THE NEW HEADGEAR?

far of the mark. It is possible to punch one of the soft crowns into all kinds of shapes without damaging its beauty in the least—in fact, every time it's hit it looks ug smelling.

The sole trimming on the small plaid or velvet hat is apt to be a single rose of silk or satin posed at one side on the narrow upturned brim, and very smart. If undistinguished, it looks however, sobered down with a nice little veil the effect is not rowdyish.

On some of the brown plush hats man. The sole trimming on the squirrel skin hat was a paradise plume of the same mole gray shade and the price for the confection was $12.

Black and white effects are with us to be sure, but they will not rule everything as they did last year. Black hats garnished with white fur, dress over till always be a mode.

Added in connection with these were

Very close fitting bonnets are becomingly fetching as an accompaniment to outdoor afternoon costumes, and the one illustrated, of white gauze with a gray and blue embroidered band trimming and a touch of cinnamon at the brim, is charming.

A youthful type of hat also illustrates

MOTOR AND EVENING MODELS.

Orlando's are going to look very like the smart small hats of the winter.

The ordinary wide the small hats are of velvet, valence or a soft silky Beaver, but whenever the material the make-up is incomparably soft and almost slovenly.

Many of these pliable ornaments have the amorphous appearance one often sees in a haphazard creation.

One shape that is widely adored are extremely good looking imitations of vealskin. A fur tail laid perfectly flat makes one side of the hat is the only requirement. But when one comes to think that these so called new shapes are not so widely different from those seen last year. The difference lies in a thinning down of the body, the shape that is wider at the front than in the back is still with us. The earmark of the best models of the new hats is their soft and simple appearance with trimmings we placed that they look as if they were about to fall off the head at one side. Finisher's project over brim at the most perilous angles, and wings and quills find themselves out on their backs with a flat brim for a resting place.

Front than in the back is still with us.

BLUSHY VELVET OR PLUSH HATS SET LOW ON THE HEAD.

Velvet hats are now more popular than ever, and the blushing velvet hats are much more than demanded by its weight to hold, so far as price is concerned.

But one cannot ascertain that the kind of parades that these show off this season. A recent display of Paris hats contained an adorable little model with a shallow buttoned hem and soft crown developed in rossette squirrel skin.

This far is the weddable relative of the poor little grubbing animal we know so well and love, but we hardly recognize in the softness of squirrel skin the squirrel itself. This may also be worn with the front than in the back is still with us.
